

But ...

- Different web browsers don't always interpret they style the same as each other!
- And as browsers develop, so they changes what new rules they support.
- Browser manufacturers likes to experiment with CSS properties in hope that their interpretations are adapter

W3C

- Ultimately, it is down to World Wide Web Consortium to decide if the new CS properties are standardised or not

